Touchscreen Solutions

for Documenting Patient Care

Physicians need look no further than the equipment in their offices to see the never-ending impact that technology has on the practice of medicine. But modern technology has done more than just aid in diagnosis, it has created a breakthrough in an area that is critical to the healthcare profession—simplifying documentation.

MD Logic is a simple, effective touchscreen system that generates accurate, complete, and immediate patient documentation in a fraction of the time required by traditional methods. Physicians are involved in every aspect of research and development of MD Logic, insuring that the software creates comprehensive documentation for virtually all specialties of medicine. It frees you from the frustrations and stresses of dictation, transcription, and coding compliance to let you focus on what matters most—your patients.

One of the most valuable assets for a physician is time. Dictation and transcription create hours of toil each day, robbing doctors of time that could be spent on more important issues. MD Logic gives those hours back. Upon completion of the patient visit, MD Logic immediately generates the detailed documentation of the visit, patient prescriptions, and referral letter, all without any additional steps for the physician or staff. You can even send all prescriptions and referral letters electronically with the touch of a button.

MD Logic streamlines patient visits. Staff members such as nurses and P.A.s can input all necessary patient medical information into the MD Logic system before the physician enters the examination room. The doctor gets an immediate snapshot of the patient visit, eliminating redundancy, increasing the quality of time with the patient, and earning more time with patients when needed. No other documentation management system makes things this simple.

for Documentation

MD Logic is easily tailored for you to increase your productivity. Rather than wasting time wading through forms that contain information with no relevance to your practice, you can customize MD Logic to meet your specific needs. Doctors representing each specialty serve as consultants for MD Logic to insure that the software meets your practice needs.

Dictation and transcription create many problems through illegible writing or incomplete information, causing delays while you check for and correct mistakes. Using MD Logic, the care provided is printed out in clean, easily understood text, eliminating room for error and creating time for you to generate more revenue through additional patient visits. And instead of waiting for days to receive completed notes from transcription, you have immediate access to an updated and accurate record.

A constant source of concern for physicians is the effort to insure that patient visits are accurately coded in line with HCFA regulations and compliance. MD Logic protects your practice with the Coding Advisor to insure that each visit receives the proper evaluation and management code. As a result, reimbursements increase and exposure is reduced, giving you additional revenue and, just as important, additional peace of mind.

Increased productivity, more time for your patients, more time for yourself, and peace of mind. MD Logic gives you all of these in a simple, turnkey solution that produces immediate benefits and long-term results.
